Beauty Sold by Auction.

How the Harems of Constantinople are Recruited.

A correspondent of the Paris Gaulois describes a recent visit to a slave sale in Constantinople. Notwithstanding the nominal abolition of the slave trade in Turkey, through the efforts of the civilized European Governments, it still continues in a furtive way. As long as the harem exists this trade will exist.

This sale was in a house. All the windows facing the street were closed. The correspondent accompanied an Egyptian friend and his valet in a carriage to the mosque of the Sultan Mahomet, at which point they turned into narrow and complicated streets, which finally became impassable. They alighted before a pile of mud which could be crossed only on foot. Reaching the house, they were introduced into the selamilk, or chamber reserved for male visitors. Here they found the slave dealer standing, a short pipe in hand. He was a little old Tripolitan, Gassirgi-Messoud-Aga, by name. He has followed the business for 40 years. After the customary salutations, pipes and coffee were offered and taken, with the silence usual to Orientals before any business transaction.

An ebony young eunuch soon entered and whispered in Messoud's ear. The latter made a sign of acquiescence, and, turning to the guests, said: "Bouyouroun" (permit me.) The guests rose and followed him into a room of the harem. A long divan, about a foot and a half high and four feet wide, surrounded three sides of the room. An excavation in the wall held the cushions and coverings used at night. The floor was covered with mats and loose pieces of carpet. Upon the divan were seated side by side, two white girls from Circassia, in the dress of their country. Opposite were three other women, one of whom was white, from Georgia, and the others black.

All arose as the visitors entered. One of the Circassians seemed scarcely 14. She had bright chesnut hair, long, dark eyelashes, which shaded eyes of liquid blue; a light, well-rounded form and regular features, overcast with melancholy. She was a beauty of the first class. Her companion, aged 18, was slightly less beautiful, but was a performer on the kemendja or Turkish violin. In addition, she was recommended as a good cook, seamstress and washer. Her brown hair fell to her knees. She looked at the visitors coolly, and fixed her eyes on the Egyptian with an expression that seemed to ask him to purchase her.

At a sign from Messoud one of the black girls disrobed the Circassians. This was not a complicated process, as their dress was simply a tunic, a pair of trousers and a chemise. The younger seemed distressed; the other simply fixed her eyes upon the floor. Messoud, passing his hands over them called attention to their good points, and made them show their regular, pearly teeth. He dwelt, also, upon the strict decorum of their antecedents.

After an examination of the Georgian and a glance at the black girls the party returned to the selamilk to close the bargain. The youngest Circassian was quoted at 200 pounds Turkish, the elder at 130, the Georgian at 120. The Egyptian found them too high-priced, and took one of the black girls for 88 pounds. He simply wanted a house servant. The sale being completed, the party were again served with pipes and coffee, and left the house.

The preliminaries to this were conducted with great caution. The valet of the Egyptian was sent the day before to announce his master's desire, and Messoud immediately came to the latter to assure himself that all was right by a personal inspection of his customer. As a mere visitor to the harem would have been eyed askance, the correspondent was introduced as Tahir-Bey, a Syrian gentleman who wished to take a chambermaid home with him.

The Murder of McRavey.

The remains of William McRavey, who was shot dead in his office at Golconda, were brought here on the express train last evening. About sundown they were conveyed to the graveyard across the river and buried. He attended the masquerade here on Monday night and the next day was shot dead by, it is supposed, an ungrateful wretch whom he had been partially, if not wholly, supporting for the last two or three months. What provocation, if any, there was for the murderous act will probably never be known, as the alleged murderer and his victim were supposed to be on good terms. As it is generally believed that sane men have a motive for every act they perform, the motive in this case must have been money. McRavey was paid his salary of $149 the evening before his death, and only a twenty-five cent piece was found on his person at the inquest. Neither did his alleged slayer have any money at the time of his arrest, and it is believed that if he robbed his victim he must have hid the money between the freight house and the place where he was discovered by Winn and Eastman.

The post mortem examination and evidence adduced at the inquest leave no doubt that McRavey was murdered and that the fatal shot was not fired by his own hand; yet the evidence, with the exception of the statement of the man accused of the crime, is all circumstantial.—Silver State.

Deadly Weapons.

Senator Stewart of Storey yesterday gave notice of a bill for an Act to prevent crime through the carying of deadly weapons. The bill will compel all citizens desirous of carrying deadly weapons to go before the County Clerk and give bonds in the sum ot $1,000 for lawful behavior, before procuring a license to carry one. Any person found in possession of a deadly weapon, without license, will be subject to a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, and to imprisonment for not more than one year.

The intent of this Act is good and some such restriction upon the lawless classes is much needed, yet the greatest care must be observed lest we disarm honest men and place them at the mercy of professional lawbreakers. It may easily happen that such a bill shall defeat its own purpose by reason of its severity and the fact that lawless men never heed the penalties prescribed. Very few citizens who intend to preserve the peace will care to give $1,000 bonds for such behaivor, and some will be unable to. Besides this the chances of detection are very small and the inclination of officers to arrest for such a crime is still less.

The operation of such a law would be merely to cause good citizens a deal of trouble. The roughs and desperadoes will go armed, law or no law, and the honest man will be compelled to give $1,000 bonds in order to be even with him. Such a law should, in order to be effective, make the Police Commissioners judges as to a man's character, and they should be allowed to refuse or grant him permission to carry a weapon. The officers should then be offered extra inducements that those ignoring the law be brought to justice, and then it might be well to exact bonds from these, to guarantee their future lawful behavior.

Cronin's Vote.

Poor Cronin, who traveled clear from Oregon to Washington in order that the country might be reformed, seems to have gotten into bad hands. He is confronted by ugly questions, which he finds it exceedingly difficult to answer. He receives a great deal of attention, and Republicans manifest an absorbing interest in his patriotism. This might have been expected, because there are very few men in Oregon who are so ambitious as to want to name our next President, and as a matter of curiosity the country should be informed of his motives. Yesterday's dispatches have about satisfied this curiosity and Cronin has lost friends in consequence. It seems that a question of dollars was involved, and that immediately upon the receipt of the bullion Cronin determined to reform the country and name its President. Cronin was only instructed "to enforce the requirements of the United States Constitution," but this instruction was signed by Senator Kellsey, and meant of course that the Constitution must be reformed.

The idea that New York money shall give Cronin a vote for President is not refreshing, and respectable Democrats don't take any stock in the transaction. Those who still advocate his claim will do well to forsake him before his case is decided, for the people of Oregon have said, as all believe, that their three votes should be cast for Hayes, and there can certainly be no other use made of them. Vale Grover. Thou art a phenomeon but not an elector.

A DISGRACEFUL BURIAL.—A few days ago a woman of the town, named Frankie Dahl, died of pneumonia in a house in the rear of the Imperial works, and was buried by the county. The remains were wrapped in a muslin shroud, inclosed in a rough pine coffin, and deposited in the ground without any burial rites. Yesterday, this fact becoming known to the women of her class, they determined to disinter the remains and give them a Christian burial. A subscription paper was at once started and placed in the hands of George Prior. The response was liberal, and the amount required ($115) is now almost raised. The remains have been taken up and are now lying at the undertaker's, dressed in a new shroud and inclosed in a burial casket. Lighted candles are kept constantly burning at the head of the coffin, and to-morrow at 4 o'clock the woman will be given a fitting Christian burial.—Virginia Chronicle, Jan. 4th.

Vanderbilt.

The great railroad magnate is dead. Yesterday morning among relatives, newspaper reporters and friends he who controlled the fortunes of thousands passed peacefully into the great beyond

Cornelius Vanderbilt, commonly known as Commodore Vanderbilt, was born on Staten Island May, 1794, and was therefore in his 83d year at the time of his death. His father was a huckster and sailor and his mother a a hired woman of Scotch descent, hence he was born poor and had his own fortune in life to make. Young Cornelius was at school only for a very short period and was brought up among ferrymen and sailors. He had therefore little culture or education. He began life as a boatman, plying a small rowboat from Staten Island to New York city, saved his money and soon had several boats, At sixteen he became captain of a sailboat, at 22 he became part owner in a coasting schooner and in 1817 was placed in command of a steamer plying between New York and New Brunswick, where his wife kept hotel and made money, and there also several of his children were born. Early in life he met Thomas Gibbons who gave a fresh impulse and direction to the natural bent of young Vanderbilt, viz: opposition. He sold out, run opposition, and was bought off time and again, but in every enterprise he made money. He became interested in railroads, real estate, steamships, banks, etc. His fortune rapidly increased until at the time of his demise he was estimated to be worth $105,000,000. As a railroad organizer and operator he had no superior in the United States; but the great aim of his life was to accumulate money. Only in a few instances did he display those qualities which mark the unselfish man. In his management of the New York Central he reflected much credit to himself. His liberal endowment of the Vanderbilt University in Tennessee showed his appreciation of educational interests and conferred a lasting benefit to mankind. Neither should it be forgotten that during the civil war he was liberal and loyal to the nation at an hour when a big pocket and loyal heart was needed. His life was a struggle; he breasted opposition and conquered; he courted selfishnes and eat of her fruits wealth; he oppressed thousands and favored tens; he was a friend to Vanderbilt; humanity might do as he had done—look out for itself. His immense possessions are here; his body will next Sunday be laid away to its resting place, and that attribute called mind, living force, soul or spirit, of which we know so little, adds an increment to the fountain of life.

An indignation meeting was to have been held at Hamilton last night to take action on the course pursued by Senator Comins, Republican hold-over for White Pine. His action in going over to the Democrats in the organization of the Senate, is severely denounced in that section.

A company has been formed in Lyon county for the purpose of taking water from the Carson river in the vicinity of the Ophir dam, and carrying it in a ditch six feet wide at the top, four feet at the bottom and two feet deep, to a large tract of land lying east of Dayton, which is fertile and dry, on which the sagebrush thrives luxuriantly. The ditch will be completed in the Spring, in time to use water for a crop next season, and will water 2,000 acres sufficiently to allow of the successful cultivation of alfalfa.

Governor Grover was on the floor of the Senate in Washiugton yesterday, and was privately introduced to the Democratic Senators by Senator Kelly. The Tilden and Hendricks Reform Club have tendered a serenade to Grover, and he is understood to have accepted it. No time has yet been fixed for his examination by the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, but his testimony will probably be taken at a meeting tomorrow. The Committee is not in session to-day.

A yesterday's New Orleans telegram says: The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court testified before the Senate Committee this morning as to the general intimidation of colored Republicans in Ouachita by means of bands of armed Democrats, and said that Dr. Dinkgrane, Tax Collector, was killed by members of the Democratic party for organizing the Republican party. He also believed that Jhdge Crawford and District Attorney Harris were assassinated on account of their politics.

A Reminiscence.

The Fight Between Dick Paddock and Farmer Peel.

[From the Virginia Chronicle.]

The shooting of Richard Paddock, on Tuesday, recalls an affair of early times in which Paddock figured prominently. In 1863 a man named Peel came to Virginia with the reputation of being a cool and calculating desperado, who had killed his man in Texas, Salt Lake and other parts of the country. His advent here caused some little excitement among the class who frequently risk their heads on the pull of a trigger. Peel was expected to make some public exhibition of his metal, but he disappointed everybody by quietly minding his own business, uhtil his unobtrusive manners acquired for him the name of Farmer Peel. One day Paddock and Peel had a few words in Robinson & Gentry's gambling saloon on B street, south of Sutton avenue, and Paddock asked Peel to step into the street and fight. Peel coolly walked out, and taking the center of the street drew simultaneously with Paddock, who was on the sidewalk. Peel's first shot pierced Paddock's side. The wounded man, throwing his arm round a post, steadied himself for the return shot, but was too weak from the shock of his wound to take a correct aim, and the ball scattered the dust at Peel's feet. Peel continued to answer his antagonist's desultory fire by deliberate shots, each shot knocking the splinters from the post behind which Paddock was trying to shelter himself, and passing into Paddock's body. Three or four bullets took effect, and one passed through his stomach. Peel was unhurt. After the fourth shot Paddock threw down his pistol, and remarked: "Boys, I'm a dead man," and sank down at the foot ef the post. Peel put away his revolver, and walking back to the saloon, resumed his seat as if nothing had happened, while Paddock was taken to the hospital. He remained several months, expecting to die daily. The wound in his stomach was such that the physicians at the time of the examination did not expect him to live an hour, but after his recovery he was as strong as ever. Peel afterwards killed "El Dorado Johnny" in a street fight, and was in turn killed in some mining camp while walking with a woman on each arm.

Death of Vanderbilt.

A New York date of the 4th says: Commodore Vanderbilt died at 10:30 this morning. He remained perfectly conscious to the last moment of his life, and died almost without a struggle Ever since Tuesday it has been apparent that he could last only a few days. At 4 o'clock this morning his condition became rapidly worse, and he expressed a desire to see the Rev. Dr. Deems, his spiritual adviser. The latter gentleman arrived in a few minutes, and Commodore Vanderbilt said: "I think I am nearly gone, doctor." Dr. Deems prayed by the bedside of the dying man, and then some members of the family sang a few hymns in low tones, The music seemed to soothe the sufferer. All his family were sent for during the night, and when he died they were at his bedside. Wm. H. Vanderbilt arrived soon after midnight and remained to the end. All his daughters and his wife were present.

The news of his death spread rapidly, and very many friends called at the house this morning and sympathised with the mourners. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. arrived just before his father died. The funeral will take place next Sunday at 10:30 A. M. The news of the Commodore's death had little effect on the market, his death having been so long expected. Commodore Vanderbilt was owner of securities having a present market value of about $85,000,000, and of this total fully $55,000,000 consisted of stock of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad. It is understood that the bulk of this property is to be kept together, and that provisions have been made for re-investing the accruing interest on it in his favorite securities. As soon as the news had been received at the City Hall, the flags were lowered at half-mast, a course which was soon followed by the principle hotels and other public buildings.

On the 22d ult, says the Bidwell Herald, a little daughter of Geo. Vincent, of Goose Lake Valley, was so badly burned by her clothes taking fire that she died in a few hours.

Jottings.

The Joe Taylor troupe gave a good performance last night at the Opera House. They show again this evening and charge 50 cents admission.

The Knights of Pythias install their newly elected officers to-night.

Next Monday morning the public schools open again, and 270 pupils who have had a centennial holiday season and richly enjoyed it must re-enter the schoolroom and pursue that which is a source of greatest profit if not wholly appreciated pleasure.

Stocks are gently dropping, and the chances are they will continue to do so for several days.

The Episcopal Seminary bagan its second term yesterday. The attendance will be somewhat larger than during the last year.

Jaquish has 800 boxes of Honey Lake apples in his cellar. They came from Milford. Yum, yum.

Ye festive rancher now brings a load of hay to town, sells it on credit, swears at the purchaser, and borrows money to go home on.

Updyke showed us something new yesterday in the graining line. This was a small roller made of walnut, on which the color is lain, and which leaves upon the door or moulding the exact grain of the wood. Updyke is a very good grainer by hand, but this roller enables him to reach perfection.

C. J. Brookins received 105 boxes of Honey Lake apples at his variety store to-day. Nothing so nice as an apple after eating goose with sage and ingen sauce.

We saw a small drove of pork on the street to-day, which will be penned again when we incorporate.

Eureka has heard of our desire for incorporation, approves of it, and wants a similar act passed in her own behalf.

The invitation party at Mr. Mayberry's this evening promises to be a very enjoyable affair.

It is said on good authority that unless it snows or rains very soon the sagebrush this year will not be so aromatic.

He had just taken toll at the gate, and as we turned the corner we caught simply these whispered words as we enviously passed by: "I wonder if he saw us!" You're a naughty fellow." Says he: "Give us another and I won't say anything about it." An occasional partly stolen and yet unobjected kiss affords a solid comfort, which is only the more enjoyable because there are but two participants, and they hold the innocent secret between themselves.

HONEY LAKE APPLES.—J. N. Jaquish has now on hand 800 boxes of the celebrated Honey Lake apples. The established reputation of this fruit is entirely sufficient to warrant its quality. For sale by the box cheap for cash. J. N. JAQUISH,
1-5tf Commercial Row.

THE TAYLOR TROUPE.—The Opera House was not crowded last night to witness the performance given by the above named troupe, owing probably to a scarcity of dollars among theater-goers. The programme was a mixed one, consisting of banjo playing, singing and minstrelsy. The principal feature of the evening was the child "Mattie," whose lightning changes and personation of several characters in quick succession, were really creditable. The idea of a play founded upon a child's petty troubles is rather novel, and especially where the child appears and recites her own woes, alternating farce with tragedy, and pathos with humor. Such a play was "The Little Orphan," in which Mattie took five characters, and showed herself quite a mistress of the mimic art. The entertainment was worthy of a better patronage, and will be repeated to-night with a partial change of programme. Admission, 50 cents; reserved chairs, 75 cents.

GRAND JURORS.—The following is a list of Grand Jurors summoned for the January term of the District Court: C. T. Bender, H. H. Beck, Nels Hammond, M. Nathan, B. F. Leete. J. F. Alexander, S. M. Jamison, C. H. Stoddard, Charles Knust, H. W. Higgins, W. R. Chamberlain, J. P. Foulks. A. A. Longley, J. E. Freeman, E. B. Towl, B. G. Clow, Nat Holmes, P. N. Marker, R. H. Kinney, C. H. Eastman, H. Stephens, Geo. Alt, F. Lemmon, and M. Raphael. These gentlemen are to put in their appearance before Judge Wright next Monday morning at ten o'clock.

SENATOR BOARDMAN.—Toby Green, the Carson correspondent of the Gold Hill News, thus speaks of Senator Boardman, in his description of prominent Republicans of the Senate:

Boardman, the new Senator from Washoe, is destined, I think, to prove one of the bright members. He is new to the custom and usage of the Senate, but has a voice and look which indicate that he will be a powerful antagonist in debate, and know what he is talking about every time, which is something that cannot be said for every Nevada legislator.

There will be fourteen less patients in the County Hospital to-morrow morning. The County Commissioners thinking that the poor house was being too well patronized, made a tour of inspection and the result will be as stated above. This is the correct policy, but care should be taken lest unnecessary extremes should be reached. We believe the Commissioners have done wisely and established a precedent.

PARTY.—We hear that the house of James Mayberry will be the scene of an enjoyable event this evening. Dancing, feasting and merrymaking of all sorts will be strictly in order. The kind hostess has made all due preparation and about seven this evening a special car and a four in hand will take those who are fortunate enough to be invited to the scene of the difficulty.

THE REASON.—It is currently reported that the weather clerk had such a grand time at the Centennial and also during the holidays, that he has got the season calendar mixed and imagines this is Spring and the Centennial is to be repeated. The local editor don't stand very high in the clerk's estimation or our readers would be presented the results of an interview.

RUMOR.—Work on Odd Fellows' Hall was temporarily suspended yesterday. This gave rise to a rumor that the building was not to be completed. This is untrue, as work is to be resumed and the building completed without delay.

The second term of Mrs. Francis Knox's select school begins next Monday, January 8th, at the Congregational Church. Terms of tuition per month, $4. For branches pursued see her card in the column of local advertisements.

SHAMEFUL.—We saw this afternoon an old grey-headed squaw in the last stages of intoxication. We believe with Sheriff Jones that selling liquor to Indians should be made a State's Prison offense, and further, that Indians should be allowed to testify.

OPERA HOUSE TO-NIGHT.—Mattie, the Queen of Comedy and Song, in the beautiful moral drama, The Little Orphan. Amission 50 cents. Orchestra chairs, reserved, 75 cents. *

WANTS WORK.—An engineer from Virginia City is now stopping at the Pollard House. He is a man of family and is anxious to get honorable employment of any kind.

COMING.—We are informed that "Little Nell" will play in Reno on Thursday evening next, January 11th, at the Reno Opera House. Nell is the "California Diamond," and has just concluded a very successful engagement in Virginia City. Her specialty is the personation of many characters in the same play.

Sol Smith Russell and the Berger family, will also visit Virginia about the 11th instant, and may be expected to give Reno a call either going or returning. Those who remember "Dorcas Pennyroyal" will be anxious to cultivate her acquaintance.

We also hear of a combination company which is well recommended, and coming this way in about two weeks.

From all of this it will be seen that Reno is to be aroused, whether it snows or not.

NEW SIGN.—Laycock & Lucas to-day put up the most artistic and beautiful sign to be found in the State of Nevada. It is said that a blacksmith always has a wagon with a loose tire; a whipmaker drives with a stick or leather strap, etc., but Messrs. Laycock & Lucas, although the best of painters resolved to have a decent sign, and they have a real beauty. It is 7 by 20 feet, and is an artistic design handsomely executed. We will not attempt to describe it. Go and see the beauty yourself.

WEDDING.—The monotony of pleasant weather and dull times was broken into this afternoon about one o'clock by the marriage by Justice Richardson of Andrew Fields to Mrs. Agusta Fields. May prosperity and a healthful amount of enjoyment atrend them in the walks of life. May their lines be cast in pleasant places, and the union here formed only merge into a higher and more perfect union in the Elysian fields.

GRANGERS' MEETING.—The annual installation of Alfalfa Grange No. 1, will take place to-morrow. Members are requested to meet at their hall promptly at one o'clock P. M. The meeting will be an important one, and a large and prompt attendance is desired.

SAD CASE.—A small boy of seven summers is under the care of the County Hospital. His father is dead and his mother worthless. Will some one adopt him?

The following inscription is found on a tombstone in an old graveyard in Massachusetts:

Weep not for me, my dearest dear,
I am not dead but sleeping here.
Repent my love before you die
And you can come and sleep with I.

Below this is written:

I do not weep, my dearest life,
For I have got another wife.
I can not come and sleep with thee,
For I must go and sleep with she.

MRS. H. ANDERSON, Physician and Mid Wife. Office and residence on north side of Plaza street, between Peavine and Center streets, Reno. 8-10tf

STILL ON TOP.—Hurrah for the Centennial. Nick wants the public to know that all danger has been removed. That no man who shaves at the Centennial need fear for his throat. No danger of having your hair poorly cut or losing a piece of your cheek at this shop, on account of a poor light; and why? Yes, why? Well, Nick, in order to keep ahead and have all modern improvements, has introduced gas into his shop and you would hardly know the place. Step around gents, opposite Norton's butcher shop, and get shaved, and come early, for there are always two crowds around. One comes to get shaved and the other to admire the shop by gaslight. 12-14tf

An Outrageous Swindle.

[From the Eureka Sentinel.]

In the early part of December some miners at Mineral Hill and Cortez District shipped a batch of very rich ore to the reduction works at Winnemucca. That from Mineral Hill was pure chloride, assaying $1,300 per ton, and has heretofore invariably worked up to 90 per cent. of assay. That from Cortez was also very rich. Mr. Lockwood, of Mineral Hill went to Winnemucca in charge of the ore and found the mill closed down, but the foreman in charge agreed to start it up for his benefit. It was agreed that the ore should be spread upon the floor and an assay taken of it, both there and in the pulp. From certain actions of the foreman, among other things refusing the floor assay as promised, Mr. Lockwood suspected that all was not right and concluded to watch proceedings, and was rewarded by catching the feeder, a Chinaman, throwing waste rock into the batteries. On remonstrating with him he replied that it was done by order of the foreman. It was too late to do anything in the premises and the consequence was that ore that assayed $1,300 when it went into the batteries, came into the pans assaying $600.

As there was no remedy, Mr. Lockwood allowed the shipment of the bullion to San Francisco and awaited returns. After considerable trouble he managed to get the amount due him, being forced to take the most of it in silver, and came home $2,000 loser by the speculation.

The returns from the Cortez ore was paid in checks on the company and sent to San Francisco for collection, but were returned dishonored, and at last accounts the agent was vainly endeavoring to collect them. The company has no property, leasing the mill from the owners, and there is no recourse for the victims but to grin and bear it. We opine that it will be a long time before another batch of ore is sent to those reduction works from this county.

Quack doctors will avoid Texas if they want to make a living. By a new law physicians must pass examinations in all branches of their science before they can collect their bills.

The young ladies of Chicago say they don't believe the theaters in that city are entirely safe. So they have resolved that whenever they go to see a play they will take their own hose with them.

They estimate that nearly 1,000 pocket-books were picked during Moody's Chicago meetings, and the newspapers blame the religious folks for not setting the public on its guard.

[No. 324.]

Application for a Patent.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
CARSON CITY, NEVADA,
December 21st, 1876.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT Benjamin F. Leete and Charles H. Van Gorder, the owners of 1,280 acres of land, situate in Churchill county, State of Nevada, containing valuable deposits of salt, and known as the "Eagle Salt Works," and whose Post-office address is at Reno, Washoe county, Nevada, have made application for a patent of the United States, under the laws concerning mineral lands, for said 1,280 acres of saline lands, or lands having thereon valuable deposits of salt—the said tract being described upon the official plat and field notes on file in my office at Carson City, Nevada, and posted upon the said tract and claim as follows, to-wit: Beginning at post marked U. S. Survey No. 37, Station No. 1. From this point the section corner common to sections 25, 30, 31 and 36, Townships 22 north of and between Ranges Nos. 26 and 27 east, M. D. M., bears east 40 chains. Thence, first course: north 40 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 2; thence running, second course: west 160 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 3; thence running, third course: north 20 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 4; thence running, fourth course: west, crossing the C. P. R. R. at 18 chains, 40 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No 5; thence running, fifth course: south, crossing C. P. R. R. at 38 chains, 40 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 6; thence running, sixth course: 40 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 7; thence running, seventh course: south 60 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 8; thence running, eighth course: east 120 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 9; thence running, ninth course: north 40 chains to post marked U S Survey No. 37, Station No. 10; and thence, tenth course: east 40 chains to post No. 1, the place of beginning.

Containing 1,280 acres. Bearings expressed from the true meridian with a magnetic variation of 17 degrees and 30 minutes east. Said claim is bounded by no known claimants, is now on unsurveyed lands, and when the subdivision lines are extended over this portion of the township it will be found to include the southwest ¼ of section 25, the south ½ of section 26, the southeast ¼ and the south ½ of the northwest ¼, and the north ½ of the southwest ¼ of section 27; the northeast ¼ of section 34, and the north ½ of section 35, in township No. 22, north of Range No. 26 east, M. D. M. Survey made in accordance with the notice of location. Improvements, consisting of buildings, machinery, salt vats, &c., made by said applicants for patent, and upon which they have expended more than five thousand dollars. Said claim and land is not within the boundaries of any known or existing mining district, but was located under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Nevada concerning the location of lands containing salt, and notice of such location duly recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the said county of Churchill.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said land and claim as hereinbefore described, are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office, at Carson City, Nevada, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the statute.
